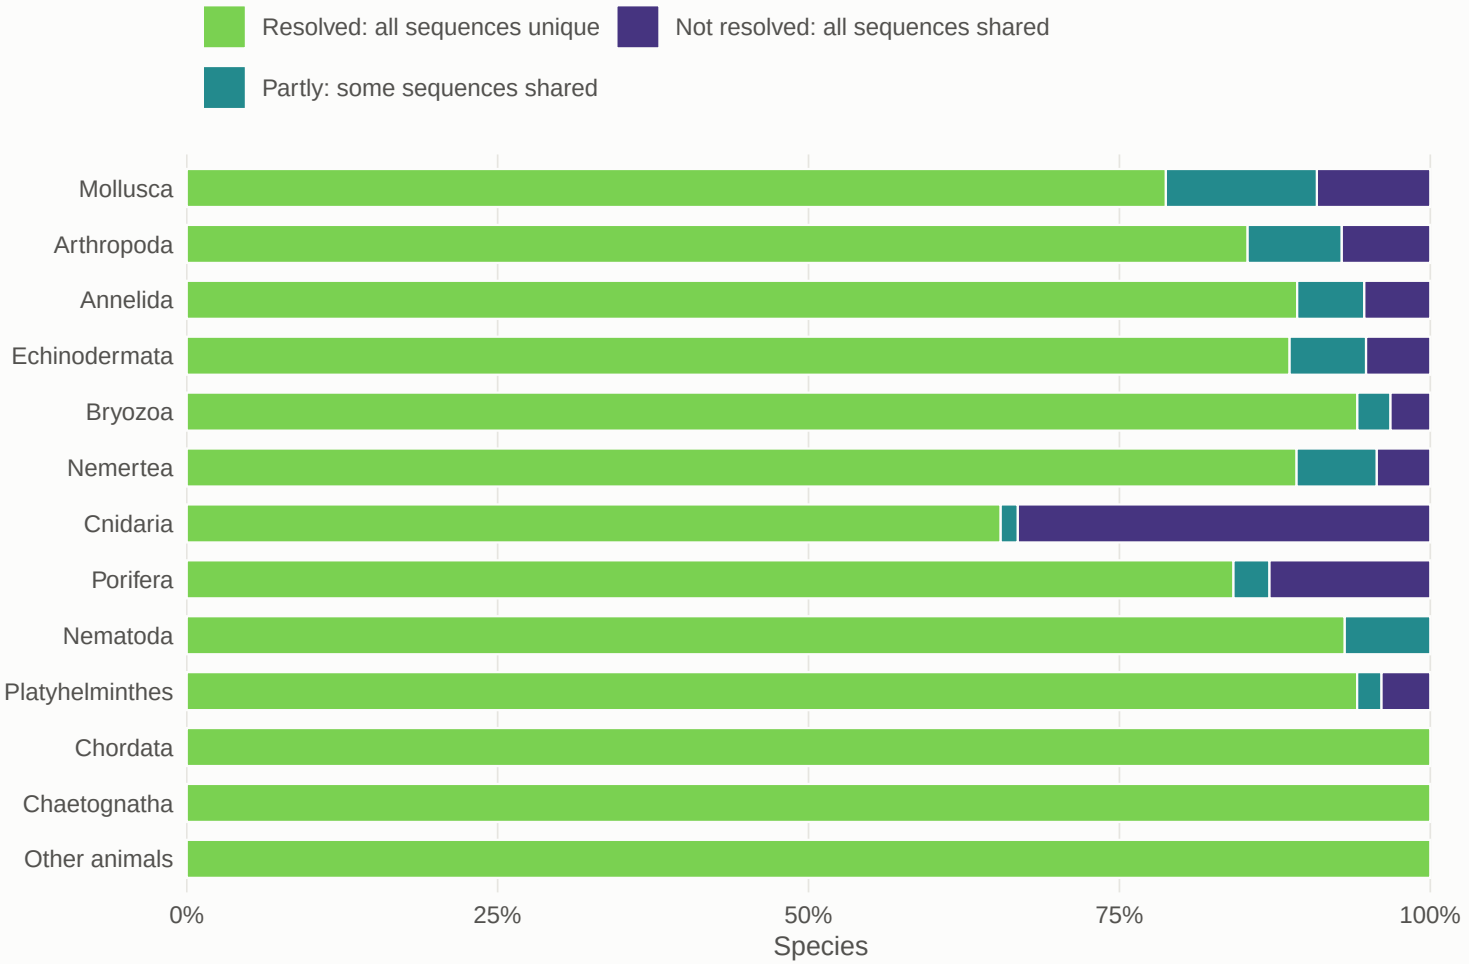
92% of species have at least one barcode no other species shares


Identical amplicons shared between species, per phylum (11,121 species; exact identity, so resolution at the usual 97−99% assignment thresholds is lower)